

A GIANT LEAP FOR DOUBTERS A worker adjusts an exhibit at NASA's Kennedy Space Center in Florida. Skepticism about established science is hardly new, but the Internet has been a boon to fringe beliefs. Think the moon landings were faked? Go online—you'll find plenty of people who agree.

